DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the reply received on September 20, 2006.

Claims 1-5, 10-11 and 17 are pending in the application.

Any rejection from the previous office action, which is not restated here, is withdrawn.

Claims 1-5, 10-11 and 17 are presented for examination on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1654

Claims 1-5, 10-11 and 17 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sporeno et al. (Cytokine, 1994) in view of Newton et al. (Molecular Biotechnology, January 2002).

Applicant's argue that the Examiner has not established prima facie obviousness because Sporeno does not contain any teaching, motivation or suggestion to remove contaminants before the metal chelating step, or that heparin would be desirable to remove contaminants. Applicant's also argue that Examiner used the disclosure and that there is not actual motivation in the art and that the examiner uses improper hindsight.

Examiner has carefully considered Applicant's arguments, however they are not deemed persuasive, because obtaining a product with less contaminants is a clear motivation in the art, and because the proteins of Sporeno and Newton were both were obtained from bacterial cells, were tagged with histidine and could be purified via metal chelating columns (i.e., tag specific affinity support columns). The use of claim language within the rejection was accompanied by pointing out in detail the location of the steps in the respective references and for the sake of clarity. Even though Sporeno does not expressly indicate the desirability of further purification, there is no hindsight within the motivation of further purify such composition. In other words, the wisdom in the field recognizes the need for purification. Furthermore, the adjustment of particular conventional working conditions within such purification method is deemed merely a matter of judicious selection and routine optimization that is well within the purview of the skilled artisan. Thus the invention as a whole was clearly prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
